Several children braved cooler temperatures on May 17, to attend a free family event sponsored by the Vermilion Wellness Coalition including golf lessons, Frisbee golf and mini-golf.

Morning instructions and time at the driving range took place at the Vermilion Golf and Country Club, followed by an afternoon of Frisbee golf and mini-golf at the Vermilion Provincial Park. Children were overjoyed to be outdoors, and Lorne and Lynn McCulley from Kitimat, British Columbia even enjoyed a round of mini-golf with their grandson, Alex McCulley, in Vermilion.

"The Wellness Coalition appreciates the investment that Cam Golby and the Vermilion Golf and Country Club makes each year by offering this free opportunity for children and families to try the sport of golf. Playing golf has the potential to be a lifelong activity which meets our coalition's goal to help people develop healthy behaviors that can become part of a lifestyle of wellness," said Wellness Coalition member, Shawn Bell.

"I think it was great having the children out even though it was a little cool," said Vermilion Golf and Country Club's General Manager, Cam Golby.
